Discover our different properties located within Singapore's Downtown Core

1. Civic & Cultural District

There's more than meets the eye in this eccentric neighbourhood. Here's where arts and culture coexist seamlessly

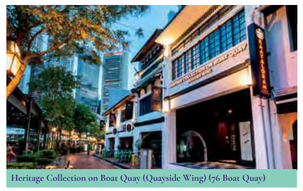
Heritage Collection on Seah (9 Seah Street)

Fun fact! Being the center of the Muslim community, Arab Street was formerly known as Arab Quarter. Over the years, many textile traders have converged on this street. Till today, it remains a popular destination for locals to buy their fabrics. When you are here, be sure to explore the back alley for a beautiful two-storey mural titled "Kampung Jemput"

Heritage Collection on Arab (78 Arab Street)

2. The Quays

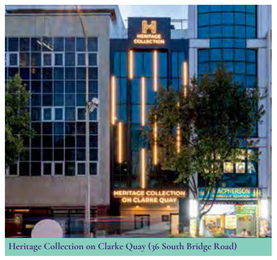
If our streets could speak, the Quays will regale you with fabulous tales of days past.



Heritage Collection on Boat Quay (Quayside Wing) (76 Boat Quay)

Deep in the footnotes of "The Singapore River: A Social History, 1819-2002" written by Stephen Dobbs, we learned that 76 Boat Quay was once home to a Wang Aik Mong who moved to Singapore in 1929. Wang's grandfather and father started a lighterage (barge) business. His family's lighterages provided a critical service of transferring goods from larger vessels anchored further out at sea to the docks of Boat Quay.

Heritage Collection on Boat Quay (South Bridge Wing) (80 Boat Quay)



Heritage Collection on Clarke Quay (96 South Bridge Road)

3. Chinatown

Chinatown's eclectic mix of cultural practices and religious institutions makes it a unique neighbourhood. Navigate your way through the bustling streets and discover its hidden gems.

Keep a lookout for the Paper Mask Man, "Mamashop" and Lion Dance Head Maker mural by well-known local artist, Yip Yew Chong. Just follow the trail of photograpy enthusiasts to our attractive side wall.

Heritage Collection on Chinatown (227 South Bridge Road)

Heritage Collection on Pagoda (63 Pagoda Street)

At a mere 15 meters from Chinatown MRT Station, our guests at Heritage Collection on Pagoda are really a skip and a hop away from a train station that services not one but two train lines! Did we also mention that this is in the very core of Chinatown?

While soaking in the colourful sights of Chinatown, venture through the southern tip of charming South Bridge Road to find three places of worship within steps of each other!

Did you know?

1. The earliest style of shophouses built between the 1840s and the 1900s were typically 2-storeys and had minimal ornamentation and decorative elements. By the 1900s, with more skilled labourers arriving in Singapore, shophouses began to have more decorative plasterwork and colourful tiles.
2. Jalan Klapa (coconut), Jalan Kledek (sweet potato) and Jalan Pisang (banana) are streets found in Kampong Gelam and they were named after the plants that used to grow in the area.
3. In the 1860s, Boat Quay was a thriving port, handling three-quarters of all shipping businesses. Chinese merchants found its location along the curve of the Singapore River to be vey auspicious because it resembled its local namesake "Belly of the Carp". Many of the shophouses you find here were previously warehouses for goods, also know an godowns.
4. Sri Mariamman Temple, Singapore's oldest Hindu temple, is located in the heart of Chinatown! Our nation's cohesive multicultural makeup is represented through our physical landscapes.
